Representative Experience

Taylor Simeone is a well-rounded litigator who represents clients across an array of industries, including technology, entertainment, insurance, and finance in high-stakes matters. Taylor's experience includes complex civil cases in state and federal court from complaint to trial. She also spent several months working in-house for a multinational investment bank and financial services company, where she developed internal compliance policies. Taylor believes that effective advocacy requires strategic thinking, efficiency, and strong client relationships.

Taylor is also passionate about protecting civil rights. She has obtained asylum for five refugees and served as co-counsel to the ACLU in three constitutional challenges to state statutes in Kentucky and Arkansas.

Selected representative matters include:

- Represented multinational technology company pursuing trade secret misappropriation, breach of contract, and employment-based claims resulting in substantial settlement*
- Obtained summary judgment in First Amendment challenge to legislation compelling ideological speech*
- Defended major airline in antitrust class action resulting in favorable settlement*
