Representative Experience

Amber's practice focuses on general and intellectual property litigation for media and entertainment clients in the motion picture, television, publishing, broadcasting, financial services, and sales and advertising industries. She has successfully litigated breach of contract, trademark, copyright, First Amendment, and idea submission matters in both state and federal courts as well as arbitration and appellate matters. Amber also regularly defends clients against FDCPA and TCPA claims and counsels clients in trademark and copyright licensing.

Selected representative matters include:

- Obtained a seven-figure arbitration award against a major animation studio for wrongfully converting the client's television series rights to an iconic cartoon character.
- First-chaired a month long conversion and fraud trial obtaining judgment in favor of client on a motion for non-suit.
- Represents Playboy regarding licensing matters in various product fields.
- Represented a production studio against claims of fraud, breach of contract, and breach of fiduciary duty in relation to the development and production of a motion picture.
- Represented a popular local chain of juice stores and cafes in relation to advertising, real estate, and partnership matters.
- Second-chaired a two-week bench trial concerning the financing and distribution of the videogame "Def Jam Rapstar."*
- Defended the in-development spy-thriller project "Section 6" against claims that it infringed the copyrights in the character James Bond.*
- Second-chaired an IFTA arbitration obtaining $2.3 million award in favor of sales agent client.*
- Obtained a $2.7 million judgment in favor of an acting studio against a competitor in a trademark infringement matter.*
- Obtained multiple dismissals via Anti-SLAPP motions for clients including a motion picture studio, production company, and film producer.
- Obtained dismissal at pleadings stage for motion picture studio on copyright claim.
- Obtained summary judgment of trade secret and copyright claims on behalf of a manufacturer.*
- Obtained summary judgment of fraud claims on behalf of a client involved in multiple real estate projects.

*Matters handled prior to joining the Firm.
